Criteria and weighting	Level	Comments
Knowledge and understanding of the topic/ issues under consideration (25%)	Very Good	There is very good and clear knowledge and understanding of the topic. The discussion connects well with the power presentation and your oral presentation. There is clear professional knowledge of your topic, but moving forward I would try to synthesise more theoretical discussion along with content that aligns with practice.
Use of relevant sources (10%)	Very Good	Very good use of relevant resources. Your research is targeted and supports your content. There is a list of references on your power point and on your transcript which is appropriate. What I would advise now is broaden your research if this is a subject you want to follow for your capstone, or consider your Capstone project and tentatively consider a research plan for your next module, [after your e-portfolio is submitted for this module].
Criticality (25%)	Satisfactory	There is viable information in your presentation and it is clear that research has taken place, however your content is overly descriptive and tends to speak of one subject and then another and so your discussion tends to be siloed. Try to synthesise your discussion more so that you are mixing your content up more and comparing and contrasting different points of research to develop a more 'pros and cons' context to the summative.
Structure and Presentation (10%)	Excellent	The presentation is well considered and logically structured. There has been an appropriate amount of consideration regarding the imagery used for the slides, a careful balance of light and dark shades to accentuate text and imagery for example. There isn't an over reliance on text on slides, the discussion is narrated through the oral presentation using the power point slides to benchmark those discussions which again is an academically appropriate approach. An excellent outcome overall.
Presentation and Communication Skills (30%)	Very Good	The presentation is completed to a very good standard generally. There is an echo/reverberation on the audio and so I would advise using headphones and a mic in future. The presentation was completed within 15 minutes which is very good practice. There is a supporting transcript as required by the summative which has also been submitted.

Overall
Positives: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Excellent structure and presentation of the power point• With most outcomes being very good• With a very good grade overall Points for development: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Your criticality needs some work• Continuing to expand on your research will help with criticality• Take a more debate based approach to your work and look at deeper research which examines the pros and cons of content.
